Stanbury, Richard J. (1923-), 1908-1998; predominant 1965-1998, 34 vols, Finding Aid no 896, 5.15 m of textual records

Richard J. Stanbury was born in Exeter Ontario and later moved to Toronto, where he still lives. He attended the University of Western Ontario and Osgoode Hall. In 1944 Stanbury married Margaret Walker and they had two children, Jane and Sally. He was called to the Ontario Bar in 1948 and practised law with the Toronto firm of Cassels, Brock and Blackwell. Stanbury was appointed Q.C. in 1961. He became actively involved in the Liberal Federation of Canada (now the Liberal Party of Canada) after its defeat to the Conservatives in 1958. Stanbury was President of the Toronto and District Liberal Association (1960-1964), a member of the Liberal Federation Campaign Committee (1961-1967), President of the Liberal Federation of Canada (1968-1973), Chairman of the Treasury Committee (1974-1976) and Co-Chairman of the 1984 Leadership Convention's Candidates Expenses Committee. He was summoned to the Senate 13 February 1968.

As a Senator, Stanbury was involved with several committees including the Legal and Constitutional Affairs Committee as both Chairman and Co-Chairman, the Joint Commons/Senate Committee on Conflict of Interest as Co-Chairman and he was the Chairman of the Special Committee on the Constitution. He promoted the development of Canadian trade overseas and founded the Canada-Arab Business Council, the Canada-Taiwan Trade Council, the Canada-India Business Council in the early and mid 1970s and sat on the International Affairs Committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The Senator was also a member of the Liberal International. Stanbury chaired the Presbyterian Church Building Corporation for twenty years and sat on the Board of Directors of Rogers Communications and Beneficial Finance Company of Canada. He retired from the Senate in May 1998.

Access restricted.

The finding aid is a file list.

This fonds documents Stanbury's political life, particularly as a Liberal and as a Senator. Stanbury was active in the Liberal Party of Canada, especially from 1968-1976, and his records document the politics of the Party at this time. These records include annotated agendas and minutes, notes and commentaries of National and Leadership conventions, and correspondence with many prominent Liberals of the time. Stanbury's commitment to liberalism is documented through many of his speeches and through his activities with the Liberal International - an organization which seeks to foster and strengthen laissez-faire economic and social policies that do not neglect the public good. Stanbury's extensive travels, some with the Liberal International and some to promote Canadian trade, are documented in twenty years of travel diaries. His Senate activities are largely documented in an alphabetical subject series that includes correspondence, research material, annotated agenda and memoranda, and committee reports.

- iv -

Stanbury's religious convictions are documented through his speeches and personal files relating to his activities with the Presbyterian Church.

This fonds is arranged into eight series and four sub-series: Correspondence Series; Speech Series; Liberal Party of Canada Series which includes the Subject Sub-Series, the National Executive Sub-Series, the Treasury Committee Sub-Series, and the Conventions Sub-Series; Liberal International Series; Senate Office Subject Series; Research Series; and Personal Series.

They also include reference material resulting from Stanbury's participation in Senate committees and special issues such as the GST Crisis. This series also documents Stanbury's attitudes towards the Senate as an institution through completed surveys and responses to concerned private citizens. Also included is a poster of the "Total Trade of the Dominion of Canada, For Each Fiscal Year 1868-1908".
