INTRODUCTION

Peter Krawchuk (1911-1997) - Biographical Notes

Peter Krawchuk was born on 8 July, 1911 in Stoianiv, now in western Ukraine. The village was then part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire and in the post-World War I period was under Polish administration. Peter was educated in the local village school and attended the gymnasium (high school) in Radekhiv until it was closed by Polish authorities in 1926. He became active in local politics which drew the attention of the Polish authorities. He emigrated to Canada in April, 1930.

He arrived in Winnipeg in 1930 and soon joined the local Ukrainian Labour Farmer Temple Association (ULFTA) and became a member of the Central Committee of its Youth Section in 1931. During this period he also joined the Communist Party of Canada (CPC). He attended the ULFTA Higher Education Course in 1936 and when he graduated he began his career as a journalist for the newspaper, Ukrainski Robitnychi Visti (Ukrainian Labour News). He continued in this profession until his retirement in 1991.

In the summer of 1940, Peter was interned by the Canadian federal government along with the other leaders of the CPC. He was released in February, 1942 and continued his work with the Ukrainian left-wing organizations. After the war, he moved with his family to work in Toronto and became an active member of the Association of United Ukrainian Canadians (AUUC). In 1947 he was a member of a delegation to Ukraine which brought humanitarian aid. He remained in Ukraine for two years and later wrote about his experiences.

In the 1950's and 1960's, Peter Krawchuk held various positions on the national executive of the AUUC and continued to contribute to their press. He also visited Ukraine and formed lasting friendships with Ukrainian artists and writers.

In 1967 he was a member of a CPC delegation to Ukraine to study the Russification trends. A report was published critical of the Soviet nationality policy but this report was withdrawn as an official CPC document.

Peter Krawchuk began to write on the history and culture of Ukrainians in Canada to assist in the preservation of Ukrainian language and literature and also to remind the youth of the achievements of their ancestors in the early years of the Canadian labour movement. During his career, he published numerous articles and over forty books including several which were translated into English.

Krawchuk supported the declaration of Ukrainian independence in 1991. He wrote his memoirs, Bez nedomovok (Without regrets) which were published in Ukraine in 1996. He also published a history of the AUUC entitled, Our History. Peter Krawchuk died on February 3, 1997 in Toronto.

The Peter Krawchuk Fonds

Peter Krawchuk was a writer, journalist and a publicist and by preference, his primary language of communication was in Ukrainian. He kept a diary of his activities including his travels. He maintained a large correspondence with friends in Ukraine and he kept copies of his outgoing correspondence. During his career on the national executive of the AUUC he travelled across Canada and visited AUUC branches. He acquired some dormant records which are included in this fonds.

His papers along with his library were kept in his car garage at his home in Toronto. The papers were not organized in any particular order and the present arrangement is an attempt to maintain the general categories which Krawchuk used to describe his papers. When the papers were donated to the National Archives in August, 1996, he retained some material to complete a book project.

Peter Krawchuk was without doubt the leading publicist for the Ukrainian left-wing movement in Canada. His writings represent the core of the “progressive” school in Ukrainian Canadian historiography. Researchers from Canada and also Ukraine interested in researching and writing on the history of the Cold War in Canada, the Ukrainian Canadian community and relations between Ukrainian Canadians and Ukraine will be obliged to examine the Peter Krawchuk Fonds.
