Administrative History

The Massey Foundation was incorporated by the Massey family in 1919 to administer the funds made available from the last will and testament of Hart Almerrin Massey (1823-1896). In his lifetime, Hart A. Massey had contributed generously to the arts and charities in Toronto including the construction of the Fred Victor Mission, Massey Music Hall, and the Burwash Hall student residences at Victoria College. His will bequeathed funds for a trust to support the arts, music, education, and religion. Under the leadership of Chester Daniel Massey and his son Vincent Massey, it embarked on the construction of Hart House, a student community centre at the University of Toronto, in 1911. It opened in 1919 at a cost of nearly $2 million and was the catalyst for the incorporation of the Foundation. Vincent Massey succeeded his father as chair of the Foundation in 1926 ensuring that Hart House continued to be the focus of its charitable activity until the outbreak of the war.

In response to Canadian participation in the Second World War, the Massey Foundation created Garnons Convalescent Home in Hertfordshire, England in 1940 for recovering Canadian military officers. Vincent Massey was serving at the time in London as the High Commissioner for the Canadian government. In the postwar era, the Foundation diversified its charitable activities by establishing the Massey Medals for Architecture and Geography, and contributing to the National Gallery of Canada, Upper Canada College, and smaller organizations or causes like the Commonwealth Youth Movement, Student Christian Movement, and Les Visites Interprovinciales, among many others. In 1959 the Foundation controlled about $4.2 million in assets when it embarked on its most ambitious project, the creation of Massey College, a multi-disciplinary college including a library, residences and other facilities for graduate students at the University of Toronto. Massey College opened in 1963 but its construction and establishment exhausted the greater part of the Foundation's wealth.

After Vincent Massey's death in 1967, his son Hart Massey became the driving force behind the Foundation which moved away from funding religious programs under his leadership. Though it had less funds at its disposal than before it built Massey College, the Foundation continued to foster achievement in the arts, music, and education in Canada, with the development of the Crafts Collection being one of Hart Massey's special projects in the 1970s. Geoffrey Massey became the chair of the Foundation after the death of Hart Massey in 1997.

Fonds description

The fonds consists of textual records, audio-visual material, and art created and accumulated by the Massey Foundation in its efforts to promote the arts, letters, and education in Canada. The records reveal its inner workings and document its legacy of funding for Hart House, Massey College, Massey Hall, Garnons Convalescent Home, the Crafts Collection, the Massey Medals for Geography, and a wide variety of other cultural projects and activities.

Series descriptions:

By-laws and legal papers (20 cm; 1918-1989; vols. 1,3, 11)

The series consists of Massey Foundation by-laws, sale and trust agreements, and files of correspondence to and from the Foundation's lawyers. The files include incoming and outgoing correspondence, financial statements, draft and final minutes, and Revenue Canada forms. Records in this series document the provision of legal advice by its lawyers to the Massey Foundation on a variety of issues. Of note are the files relating to the change of directors and counsel subsequent to the establishment of the Quadrangle Fund in 1966 and a change of counsel again from Ottawa to Toronto lawyers in 1979. Many of the other files deal to a large extent with routine legal housekeeping and administration.

Financial papers (59 cm; 1896-1994; vols. 1, 3-4, 11-13)

The series consists of financial statements, account and cash books, journals and correspondence. The correspondence documents the Massey Foundation's dealings with National Trust and Wood Gundy, and includes records of portfolio valuations and investments. There are also financial statements covering the years 1935 to 1993 for the Foundation which show its financial position and the programs which received funding during the year.

Minutes of meetings (9 cm; 1919, 1939-1991; vols. 1, 5, 13)

The series comprises minutes of meetings of the Board of Directors of the Massey Foundation and minutes of its Annual General Meetings, including both draft and final versions, as well as agenda, notices of meetings, and by-laws and various reports pertaining to agenda items. The minutes and supporting documentation furnish evidence of the decision-making process and the major policies and initiatives adopted by the Foundation.

Correspondence (61 cm; 1930-1997; vols. 1, 5, 10, 13-15, oversize 25)

The series consists of incoming and outgoing correspondence, applications for assistance, thank-you letters, promotional material, catalogues, pamphlets, press kits and press releases. The files document requests for the financial assistance of the Massey Foundation in support of a variety of artistic endeavours and other projects. There is also information relating to the maintenance of the family burial ground and mausoleum at Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Toronto. Correspondence among successive chairmen and trustees of the Foundation deal with requests for assistance, financial statements and reports, and the establishment of important projects such as the Crafts Collection. Of particular interest are the files revealing a profound disagreement between Vincent Massey and the rest of his family relating to the affairs of Massey College at the University of Toronto and the creation of the Quadrangle Fund (vol. 14, files 1 and 18-22).

Subject files (2.99 m; ca. 1887, 1919-1997; vols. 2, 5-10, 15-24, oversize 25-26)

The series comprises subject files covering the Massey Foundation's most important projects, including Massey College, the Crafts Collection, Garnons Convalescent Home, Hart House, Massey Hall, Upper Canada College chapel, the National Gallery of Canada, the Stratford project (Avon theatre), the Massey Medal for Geography, and the Vincent Massey Awards for Excellence in the Urban Environment. In addition, there are files on other subjects or themes of interest to the Foundation's work.

The projects with the richest documentation are Garnons, Massey College, and the Crafts Collection. Documentation related to Garnons, the convalescent home in Hertfordshire for Canadian military officers during the Second World War, includes correspondence, financial records, inventories, and a wide variety of registers and log books. The records reveal the minutiae of running the Home and preserve the names and personal information relating to the officers, staff and visitors who were there during the war. The Massey College files document the origins of this ambitious project at the University of Toronto and its execution; they also bear witness to the ongoing, and sometimes difficult, relationship between the College and the Foundation. There is much interesting correspondence in the files between Masters of the College like Robertson Davies and Chairs of the Foundation such as Vincent Massey and Hart Massey.

Subject files also document Hart Massey's passion for Canadian crafts. He devoted tremendous time and energy to building up the Massey Foundation Crafts Collection, which he ultimately donated to the Museum of Man (later the Canadian Museum of Civilization).

The files contain valuable information about the craftsmen and craftswomen and their works, and the process by which the Crafts Collection acquired these works. The series also holds textual records and sound recordings relating to John Flanders' book The Craftsman's Way: Canadian Expressions (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1981) which had an introduction written by Hart Massey. There are twenty-two audio cassettes of interviews conducted by John Flanders with men and women featured in the book.

In addition, this series contains a drawing by Alan Beddoe of the Coat of Arms for Massey College and over-size certificate presented to H. A. Massey by his employees on the 40th anniversary of the Massey Manufacturing Company (vol. 27) in 1887.
