PRIMARY CORRESPONDENCE SERIES, J1

The Primary Correspondence Series consists of the political correspondence found in the Prime Minister's Office files and at Laurier House for the years 1889 to 1950. It ranges in nature from unsolicited congratulatory telegrams, to letters from cabinet ministers discussing government policy, to correspondence with leaders of state. The correspondence prior to King's work in the Department of Labour in 1901 relates to his academic career, and is of a more personal nature. Mackenzie King was Secretary of State for External Affairs, as well as being Prime Minister, 1921 to 1930 and 1935 to 1946, and therefore official despatches from Canadian ambassadors and the British Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs are found in this series. When the Prime Minister journeyed outside the country, members of the Privy Council Office and the Prime Minister's Office often sent him reports of the current political activities, or minutes of cabinet meetings. The Primary Correspondence Series is made more valuable by the Prime Minister's comments written on incoming correspondence, or his personal revisions to draft letters prepared for his signature.

Incoming correspondence was divided into three categories by the PMO staff: letters marked "Private" or "Confidential", which went directly to the Prime Minister unopened; routine letters which were handled by the PMO, forwarded to the appropriate department or replied to by the Principal Secretary; and all other letters which were dealt with by the PMO staff, with replies prepared for the Prime Minister or the Private Secretaries. The original incoming letter was filed with copies of the reply and any memoranda necessitated by the letter according to a subject system which exist in the Prime Minister's Office Series (J2). Along with the filing process a subject card index for each letter, and a nominal index of each correspondent, was produced by the PMO staff.

The Primary Correspondence Series represents a comprehensive record of Mackenzie King's political correspondence with regard to individuals and subject matter. It is an invaluable source for research on his political career, the influence of his colleagues in the government and the Liberal Party, as well as an indication of the feelings of Canadians through organizations, interest groups and individual depositions. This series should be used with complementary series J4 Memoranda and Notes Series and possibly J2 Prime Ministers Office Series which consists of material "left over" when the J1 and J4 series were created. The J13 Diaries Series is also valuable when used with J1 and J4.

NATURE OF ORGANIZATION:

The Primary Correspondence Series is arranged alphabetically by correspondent within each calendar year. Any enclosures or replies have been kept together with the incoming letter, and have been numbered consecutively. If there was more than one letter from the same correspondent during the same year, these letters were filed chronologically together, again with the replies attached to each.

The Primary Correspondence Series is in fact an artificial series, created with the initial organization of the collection. It was decided that letters of "lasting value" would be drawn together chronologically by year with a precis catalogue card for each letter. Therefore correspondence was drawn from material existing at that time in Laurier House or later from the East Block office and at the Prime Minister's Office. The original subject-numeric files were separated with letters and their replies and enclosures organized in this J1 series. All memoranda and notes were arranged in the J4, Memoranda and Notes Series. The researcher should use J1 and J4 together to recreate the complete information originally found in the PMO files.

FINDING AIDS:

The basic finding aid to the Primary Correspondence Series is the Volume and Microfilm List. This list indicates the first and last correspondent within each volume, the inclusive page numbers and the corresponding microfilm reel. There are a number of subject and author indexes which can be used with the volume list. There is an author and a subject index in the Reference Room for the correspondence up to 1921. The author index consists of the index cards containing years and page numbers. The subject index includes the date, correspondent and page numbers for each indexed subject as well as a list of the subjects indexed. This subject index is also available on Microfilm reels C4591 to C4593.

The Political Archives Section has prepared a detailed subject and correspondent index to the 1922-1950 J1 Correspondence. This index is available on the Archivia - Net in the Reference Room.

A subject list prepared for the official biography project for the entire series is available as part of the Papers (MG26 J 21). This list contains only the date and correspondent of each letter grouped by subjects. The Volume and Microfilm List must be used in conjunction with the Biographers' Subject Index to convert the list of dates and correspondents to the appropriate page number and volume or microfilm reel number. The researcher should be warned that this subject index has its limitations. There is no assurance that the Biographers' Index covers all of the correspondence, for letters were later added to the series but not necessarily noted in the index. At the same time this index does not indicate the real extent to which the subject is treated in each letter. Finally, the Biographers' index shows considerable correspondence between Mackenzie King and the PMO or PCO staff. In fact this material is notes prepared to assist the Prime Minister in handling correspondence. These notes were considered as enclosures and arranged with the incoming letter. Therefore researchers must trace the incoming letter using the same subject heading in the Biographers' index to find the note, assuming that it bears a chronological proximity.

There still exist various index cards used by the Prime Minister's Office in their records management system. These card indexes are now part of the W.L.M. King Papers (MG 26 J 20). These subject and correspondent index cards will not assist in the location of any material but indicate to the researcher that a letter or letters on a particular subject might exist somewhere within the papers. During the initial indexing of the Primary Correspondence Series the archivists produced a card catalogue describing the content of the letters. This cataloguing was discontinued midway through the organization of the series and therefore it is incomplete. Both the PMO office cards and the precis catalogue should be used as a last resort by the researcher, and can only be used with the assistance of the archivist.

Please note that all finding aids to the Mackenzie King fonds are numbered "502" and can be located in the Reference Room by using this finding aid number.

RESEARCH USE:

The organization of the Mackenzie King Papers requires the researcher to use the Primary Correspondence Series (J1) and the Memoranda and Notes Series (J4) together and in this way one will be able to come close to recreating the original PMO subject files using the most important documents. For example, material relating to the 1944 conscription crisis will be found in both the J1 and J4 series. Memoranda from the PMO or PCO, government departments or cabinet ministers, along with House of Commons briefing notes speeches and newspaper clippings will be found in the Memoranda and Notes Series, while important correspondence from cabinet ministers involved in the crisis would be found in J1. In a topic spanning several years or involving many individuals, it would be beneficial to begin with the Memoranda and Notes Series using its subject finding aid, noting references to important correspondence and then using the Primary Correspondence to complete the research by filling in the information gaps. For research on an individual or a few individuals over a short period of time, the researcher would best begin with the Primary Correspondence Series. The subjects used by the first archivists to index this series are written on the correspondence in pencil and will assist one in using the subject indexes for this and the Memoranda and Notes Series.

In using the Primary Correspondence Series, it is important for the researcher to know the individuals who occupied important governmental, civil service or diplomatic positions at various times. Although some titles or names of government departments were used as correspondents, for the computer index access to the J1 correspondence is chiefly through the individual's name and not by title or position in an organization. For example important correspondence from a deputy minister which would complement material in J4 or a government department would be arranged under the deputy minister's name, or correspondence from the presidents of the Canadian Manufacturers Association would be according to the individual presidents. The same situation usually occurs for Canadian Ambassadors and High Commissioners, diplomatic representatives in Canada, member of the PMO and PCO, and interest or pressure groups.

ACCESS:

The Primary Correspondence Series is open to researchers. Because the original J1 documents have been removed from circulation, researchers must use the microfilm which is available on a self-serve basis.

SUGGESTED CITATION:

National Archives of Canada, W.L.M. King Papers, MG 26, J1, volume 203, pp. 176532-35.
King to E.J. Garland, 16 January 1935.

SUBSEQUENT CITATIONS:

NA, MG 26, J1, vol. 314, p. 265920, A.W. Roebuck to King, 2 December 1941.

PRELIMINARY WORK:

Preliminary reading on Mackenzie King is essential for the use of this series because it will give the researcher an appreciation of the significance of the individuals cited in the nominal finding aids, as well as the ability to identify the gaps in information that must be filled by consulting other series in the Mackenzie King Papers. Most of the recent historical studies on Mackenzie King and his era have made use of the Primary Correspondence. An examination of these works will give the researcher an indication as to the informational value of this material.

MICROFILM:

It should be noted that the J1 correspondence for the years 1922-1932 was re-boxed after the material had been microfilmed, therefore the volume numbers given on the microfilm reels C-2242 to C-2331, are incorrect. The correct volume numbers run from Volumes 69-194. This discrepancy is noted on the outside of each microfilm reel box and in this J1 Volume and Microfilm list where old volume and new numbers are listed side by side.
