

1991-256 : Underwood & Underwood

General description

Comprising 2,454 photographic images mounted on large sheets, this collection of Underwood & Underwood photographs documents a wide array of Canadian subject matter between the years 1895 and 1916, with the bulk being 1900 to 1915. The images are half stereos (they were originally taken as stereos), but the stereo pairs are not included on these sheets. The organization of materials is largely geographical, depicting most provinces as well as the Northwest Territories. A small degree of American content is interspersed. The images depict a wide range of subjects; cityscapes, landscapes, leisure activities, agriculture, historical events, and architecture are the main thematic categories.

The numbering and arrangement of photographs on the sheets is probably that of Underwood & Underwood. Nonetheless, the arrangement and numbering of photographs does not follow any apparent logical system. There is also a significant degree of repetition in this collection (some subjects were re-photographed once or more during the period, and in many instances several different exposures of a particular view or place were made at the same time) ; this follows naturally from Underwood & Underwood's substantial production of stereo views. It is very likely that this collection is derived from proof books used by the studio to visually index its collection of negatives.

Finding aid guide

The following indexes locate images according to geographical and thematic groupings. Individual images are listed with a number indicating the page number (three to four digits) and print number (five to six digits). Each box description provides a brief summary of the contents and a breakdown of images by subject matter. For the general index at the end of this document, images under each subject heading are broken down on a container by container basis.

Box descriptions

Box SC-627 (container 2000613869)Location(s): Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, OntarioDates: 1895 to 1910 (est.)Image count: 195

The majority of this material is of Alberta and British Columbia. Most of the images are scenic, and a significant number capture human activity. For instance, one series depicts Sarcee Indians while another depicts cowboys. A large number of prints are landscapes, while subsets depict human activity and various tourist attractions (e.g. Banff Springs hotel). Beyond mountains and rivers, glaciers are a strong feature of this series. An early image of Calgary is included, and there are various street scenes featuring Vancouver and Victoria. Falling outside of the Alberta and British Columbia geography are images of Winnipeg and the Duke and Duchess of York's visit to Ottawa in 1901. Note that some images have been removed from the sheets, likely by Underwood and Underwood.

This series of images depicts various regions of New Brunswick, predominantly Southernly areas around Fredericton, Moncton, and Saint John. Most items are grouped in series, but there is a degree of interspersing of images. For the most part, this material focuses on scenic compositions of marine subject matter (e.g. Bay of Fundy, Saint John Harbour, river valleys, etc.). The most significant architectural presence is found in the images of Fredericton depicting the Provincial Legislature, Christ Church Cathedral, and the University of New Brunswick. The images of the Bay de Chaleur seem to include some Québec material.

With the exception of one image depicting Montreal, this series of images documents various areas of Nova Scotia. The material ranges from landscapes (Annapolis and Cornwallis Valleys), small towns such as Digby and Wolfville, to the larger centres such as Yarmouth and Halifax. The majority of the images are scenic in nature, with the exception of some of those taken in Halifax. One series of photos captures the return of troops to Halifax from South Africa as well as the commemorative arches marking the occasion. Other series of note are: a regatta held in Halifax, the ruins of Fort Louisbourg, local universities, the Dominion Coal Mines in Sydney, and Halifax's Citadel Hill. Note that some images have been removed from the sheets, likely by Underwood and Underwood.

Focussing mainly on Toronto, this series of images depicts an array of subjects ranging from State events to leisure activities. A large proportion of the material depicts the reception for the Duke and Duchess of York in 1901, including the return of Canadian troops from the Boer War. Seventeen images document temporary ceremonial arches constructed for the aforementioned events. Additionally, this series includes numerous street scapes and images of leisure activities. A small run of material depicts livestock located in pastoral settings near Toronto. Local universities and churches are included. The Ottawa content focuses on the Parliament buildings along with two images of Rideau Hall.

Box SC-631 (container 2000613879)Location(s): St. Lawrence River & Thousand IslandsDates: 1900 to 1910 (est.)Image count: 192 (27 are individually sleeved)

Interweaving American and Canadian content, this series depicts many tourist and leisure activities in the Thousand Islands. Subsets of the material represent camping, fishing, boating, landscapes, resort towns, and hotels. A large proportion of the pictures are "peopled". A considerable amount of the content appears to be American. The box includes a folder containing twenty-seven individually sleeved photographs on hard backings; a few are identified and there is a high degree of duplication/triplication. The subject matter of the folder mirrors that of the larger Thousand Island series (mainly hotels and tourists).

Location(s): Manitoba, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Québec

Dates: 1900 to 1915 (est.)

Image count: 226

The materials in this box cover a wide array of subject matter in four provinces, often elaborating on series contained in other boxes (e.g. most Halifax material is in box SC-629 (container 2000613876), but some additional images are located in this box). Included is a rich array of photographs depicting temporary triumphal arch structures built to welcome back troops and to mark the visit of the Duke of York (1901). Québec City's winter carnival and Muskoka, Ontario are well represented in this material. A number of the images are very similar (perhaps repeats) to others in the longer collection.

Comprising mainly images of Québec, this series focuses strongly on Montreal and Québec City. There are many street scapes, along with a typical array of city images (churches, civic buildings, monuments, etc.). Unique within the scope of collection, this box contains many photos of market activities. Another series of interest is the interior of a furrier's shop in Québec City. Some winter carnival images are included, as well as photos of the incline railway in Montreal.

Box SC-634 (container 2000613884)

Location(s): Québec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia

Dates: 1900 to 1915 (est.)

Image count: 395

Containing only a couple of images of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the contents of this container mainly portray Québec City and Percé, Québec. In the Percé series, the emphasis is split between the natural features and the human habitation of the region. For the most part, the Québec City materials expand upon the subject matter introduced in container SC-633 (container 2000613882). Of note is the extensive naval fleet gathered for the Duke and Duchess of York reception, as well as the photos of marketplace activities in Québec City. Waterfalls and a couple of small communities are also imaged.

Box SC-635 (container 2000613885)Location(s): QuébecDates: 1908Image count: 258

Unique to the collection, this container contains virtually a single series of photographs; with very few exceptions, these images depict Tercentenary celebrations held in Québec City (1908). Most photos are well identified, even specifying the names of ships and characters in the pageants. There are three main groupings for the Tercentenary celebrations: a naval procession, the reception of the Prince of Wales, and pageants recreating historical events. Photographs of nighttime illuminations and fireworks are included. A separate series depicts pilgrimage to the Ste. Anne de Beaupré basilica, while another depicts the summer house for Laval University's president in St. Joachim.

These materials fall into two broad categories: continuations of previously encountered series or miscellaneous and unidentified photos. There is no significant geographical cohesion to this set of images. For instance, a small number of images of Field, BC and the Thousand Islands re-appear in this box. Series not seen before include the depiction of canal and lock systems located in and near Sault Ste. Marie, ON. There are also many photos of agricultural activities that have no geographical identification. Also of interest are photos of the RCMP in Regina, NT and a miniature train used to provide amusement rides for children.
