CUSTODIAL HISTORY

HISTORIQUE DE CONSERVATION: Au début du XIXe siècle, les fonds des Archives nationales demeuraient dispersés dans plusieurs maisons de Paris. Dans un effort de centralisation, le gouvernement leur affecta en 1808 l'hôtel de Soubise, rue des Francs-Bourgeois à Paris, auquel sont venus s'ajouter aux XIXe et XXe siècles plusieurs constructions nouvelles et s'agréger les immeubles voisins.

ADMIN. HISTORY / BIOGRAPHY
HISTOIRE ADMIN. / BIOGRAPHIE:

<46925> Le 29 juillet 1789, l'Assemblée constituante créa un dépôt pour la conservation de ses actes originaux. Le 4 août, Armand-Gaston Camus, avocat au Parlement et député de Paris, se vit confier la direction de ce dépôt qui, le 7 septembre 1790, reçut le nom d'Archives nationales. Dès 1792, cette nouvelle institution commençait à rassembler et à classer non seulement les papiers des organismes issus du nouveau régime (assemblées et tribunaux révolutionnaires, comités, etc.), mais aussi ceux des grandes administrations de l'ancien régime, des corporations supprimées par la Révolution, des grandes et petites juridictions et des particuliers émigrés ou condamnés. L'extension des Archives fut favorisée par plusieurs décrets prescrivant le transfert dans ce dépôt des papiers qui ne sont plus nécessaires au service courant des ministères et administrations de l'État français.

SELECTIONS FROM THE T SERIES

INTRODUCTION

A vast collection of private papers, the Série T: Séquestre results from the exercise by the new revolutionary State of the right to place under sequester the private papers of lay corporations and of individuals having emigrated as a result of the Revolution or having been condemned for offenses other than those of common law. Other miscellanea have been added to the main body of sequestered records: papers found in public transportation conveyances, papers concerning the settlement of estates having no known heirs, the records of a "notaire". In reference numbers where a star follows the letter T, a bound volume is indicated; the rest of the material is unbound and in boxes.

The series contains the following sections:

T 1-982	Séquestre des particuliers. Emigrés et condamnés
T 983-1042	Papiers trouvés dans les voitures publiques et versés aux Archives par les Messageries (Premier Empire)
T 1043-1125	Séquestre des particuliers
T 1126-1415	Papiers provenant des successions en déshérence ouvertes à Paris pendant la Révolution, et versés aux Archives de 1793 à 1812
T 1416-1460	idem pour la période 1764 à 1806, versés aux Archives en 1831
T 1461-1466	Miscellanea
T 1467-1486	Registres des successions dévolues au roi de 1728 à 1791, versés aux Archives en 1832
T 1487-1488	Emprunt forcé, 1793-1794
T 1489-1492	Séquestre des corporations laïques, ouvrières ou marchandes
T 1493-1495	Miscellanea
T 1496-1497	Séquestre des particuliers
T 1501-1568	Séquestre des particuliers
T 1601-1671	Procès-verbaux des perquisitions et des inventaires faits chez les émigrés, chez les condamnés, chez les personnes mortes sans héritiers
T 1672-1694	Travaux du Bureau du Séquestre
T 1695-1742	Papiers trouvés dans les voitures publiques.

A manuscript inventory furnishes an indispensable key to this voluminous series. Using it as a point of departure, I examined all material containing any mention or evidence of a connec-
